Course

IDS 201 - Introduction to Interdisciplinary Studies

Students in the Interdisciplinary Studies Major - Self Designed Track will explore the foundational principles and core values underlying interdisciplinary studies. They will apply these principles to develop their own personalized plan of study to reflect professional, educational, and personal goals.

Upon completion, students will be able to:

- Explore interdisciplinary approaches to address complex issues or problems, particularly those relevant to students' chosen emphasis areas.
- Identify potential research topics and career goals well suited for interdisciplinary inquiry.
- Communicate academic interests and professional goals by drawing on common genres and conventions within chosen disciplines of study.
- Articulate a comprehensive learning plan, including an approved degree plan obtained through the curricular process and a clearly defined pathway, fostering readiness for future career goals.
